PRESS RELEASE

BlindArt Collection
Donated to
Moorfields Eye Hospital
NHS Foundation Trust

September 2012

BlindArt Collection will be housed at the Moorfields Eye Hospital in London from October 2012. Moorfields was founded in 1804 and is the oldest and one of the largest centres for ophthalmic treatment, teaching and research in the world. BlindArt continues its pioneering work through its collaboration with Moorfields Arts Project to inspire the visually impaired community and dispel the notion that sight is essential to creating or enjoying exceptional art.

The unveiling of the Collection is on 11th October 2012 to celebrate World Sight Day.

Sheri Khayami, founder of BlindArt says of the donation: “We are delighted to collaborate with Moorfields Arts Project to continue BlindArt’s quest to inspire the visually impaired community through art. BlindArt will use this opportunity to promote accessible art throughout eye hospitals worldwide.”

Doctor Mariya Moosajee, a lecturer at Moorfields, spear-headed the arts programme said: “The Moorfields Arts Project was launched last year to introduce the positive benefits of art in the healthcare environment. Part of this initiative was to ensure that the visually impaired and blind could appreciate high quality artwork. BlindArt hold the same doctrine, to dispel the notion that sight is essential to creating or enjoying exceptional art. We are so pleased to be housing the BlindArt permanent collection, with around 500,000 patient attendances each year, we are sure the tactile collection will get maximum exposure and be enjoyed by patients, visitors and staff alike.”

The BlindArt Permanent Collection is the world’s first permanent showcase of visual art accessible to visually impaired people and includes paintings, sculpture, installations and other works of art. The Collection provides a platform for the works of both visually impaired and sighted artists showcasing exceptional works that appeal to a multitude of senses; questioning the nature of artistic perception and whether visual ability is essential for artistic excellence and aesthetic appreciation. BlindArt has been exhibited at: Royal College of Art, London, 2005; Bankside Gallery, London, 2006; New York Public Library, NYC, 2006; Affordable Art Fair, London, 2006; The Richard Attenborough Centre, Leicester, 2007; Menier Gallery, London, 2007; Catmose Gallery, Rutland, 2008; Museum of Modern Art, Wales, 2008; Royal Cornwall Museum, Truro, 2008; Art London, London, 2009; Royal National College for the Blind, 2009; Hove Museum & Art Gallery, 2010; Banbury Museum, 2011.
